The power of sharing...

We live in a power-hungry world. Men and women spend every waking moment trying to consolidate their power, grabbing more and more at every opportunity. They have only one focus...getting more! But the Bible gives us a different perspective, doesn't it?

Someone has described evangelism as "one beggar telling another where he found his crust of bread." While the Good News of the Gospel is so much more than just a "crust," you get the idea...what is precious to us becomes even more valuable when we share; which is why Thy Word Network is partnering with Evangelism Explosion this month to bring their one-day evangelism workshop Equip America to the tri-state.

It will be held on October 27 at Family Bible Church on the north side of Evansville by North High School, and is a concentrated, one-day opportunity to learn a simple way to share the Gospel, and then put it in practice out in the community. While you give up your Saturday, you may be used of God to change someone's eternity...not a bad swap.

If you would like to come, you must pre-register by clicking on the link at thyword.org. EE has waived the registration cost, and lunch will be provided, but space is limited so sign up today!

And, speaking of sharing.....

Words are not able to express how thankful we are for everyone who shared with us during the recent Sharathon. Your generous support enabled us to surpass the $300,000 goal right in the closing minutes, and gifts have continued to come in, pushing the total over $315,000 now. While the Sharathon raises a significant portion of our annual budget, it doesn't provide it all, so we must "walk by faith" just as our faith-promise partners do. But what a great privilege to share in what God is doing...changing lives for Eternity. Now that's real power!
